Groups with a history of violence or terrorism (within last ten years) may be banned. Groups sympathetic to or related to banned groups must be allowed if they have no history of violence.

NO: A NO score is earned when any single non-violent group is legally prohibited from organizing to promote good governance or anti-corruption. These groups may include non-violent separatist groups, political parties or religious groups.

YES: A YES score is earned if anti-corruption/good governance CSOs face no legal or regulatory restrictions to raise or accept funds from any foreign or domestic sources. A YES score may still be earned if funds from groups with a history of violence or terrorism (within last ten years) are banned.

NO: A NO score is earned if there any formal legal or regulatory bans on foreign or domestic funding sources for CSOs focused on anti-corruption or good governance.

1c. In law, anti-corruption/good governance CSOs are required to disclose their sources of funding.

YES NO

Comments:

The law requires for funding to be disclosed; however, there is no access to information legislation in Lebanon, and funding disclosure is not public, but is limited to the Ministry of Interior and Municipalities (MoIM). Article 7 of the 1909 Ottoman Law of Associations stipulates that associations (regardless of the nature of their work) should disclose to the MoIM receipts and expenditures.

NO: A NO score is earned if no such public disclosure requirement exists.

2a. In practice, the government does not create barriers to the organization of new anti-corruption/good governance CSOs.

Comments:

These cases are not limited to CSOs working on good governance or anti-corruption but all CSOs. As highlighted by Makary: It is important to note that in the post-war period under the Syrian occupation of Lebanon, the government adopted a repressive attitude towards civil society organizations. It worked to have broad control over the formation and incorporation of new associations."

Formation is possible, though there is some burden on the CSO. Some unofficial barriers, such as harassment of minority groups, may occur.

25:

0: Other than pro-government groups, CSOs focused on promoting good governance or anti-corruption are effectively prohibited, either by official requirements or by unofficial means, such as intimidation or fear.

Comments:

An example of a successful initiative advocacy and lobbying strategy led by civil society in Lebanon is the Civil Campaign for Electoral Reform (CCER). They participated in the legal drafting process of the 2008 Parliamentary Elections Law (implemented in the framework of the June 2009 elections). CCER had presented and lobbied for an eight-point reform plan, and many of these reforms were adopted in Lebanon for the first time.

Comments:

Since the May 2008 incidents in the country, the independence of trade unions is questionable and challenged. Trade unions have played a role in the country's polarization, and as highlighted in the 2009 Annual Survey of Violations of Trade Unions Rights trade unions were denounced to play a role towards the overthrowing of the Lebanese Government. Moreover, the report also states that Senior politicians have managed to have their nominees placed on the governing body of the CGTL, causing friction within the union when it opposes government policy."

14a. In law, universal and equal adult suffrage is guaranteed to all citizens.

YES

NO

Comments:

According to the Lebanese Constitution and the 2008 Parliamentary Elections Law, all citizens (residents or not on Lebanese territory) above the age of 21 are entitled to vote. In March 2009, a draft law was passed by Parliament to lower the voting age to 18, but the Constitutional amendment has yet to be made. On another note, Articles 4,5,and 6 of the 2008 Parliamentary Elections Law also set limitations to voting to following categories: persons deprived of civic rights, convicted persons, persons declared bankrupt or fraudulent, citizens naturalized for less than 10 years, and persons with military ranks.

Interview with Gaelle Kibranian

Programs Director at the Lebanese Transparency Association and Country Researcher in the 2008 and 2010 Open Budget Index

100: All significant government expenditures (defined as any project costing more than 1% of the total national budget), must be approved by the legislature. This includes defense and secret programs, which may be debated in closed hearings.

75:

50: Most significant government expenditures (as defined) are approved by the legislature, but some exceptions to this rule exist. This may include defense programs, an executive's personal budget, or other expenses.

25:

0: The legislature does not have the power to approve or disapprove large portions of the government budget, or the legislature does not exercise this power in a meaningful way.

40c. In practice, the legislature has sufficient capacity to monitor the budget process and provide input or changes.

100 75 50 25 0

Comments:

Lebanese Parliamentarians are not experts on budget, and there is nobody to enhance the capacity of parliamentarians as a Budget Office in Lebanon.

Interview with Gaelle Kibranian

100: Legislators benefit from a sufficient and qualified staff as well as adequate financial and physical resources. Lack of capacity is never a reason why legislators cannot carry out their duties effectively.

75:

50: Legislators have some staff and financial resources but are limited by a shortfall of resources to adequately perform all of their budgetary oversight functions. Legislators are occasionally overwhelmed by the volume of work to be performed.

25:

0: Legislators have little to no staff and virtually no financial resources with which to perform their budgetary oversight role. Lack of resources is a regular and systemic problem that cripples the performance of the legislature.

41. Can citizens access the national budgetary process?

50

41a. In practice, the national budgetary process is conducted in a transparent manner in the debating stage (i.e. before final approval).

100 75 50 25 0

Comments:

Most of the documents needed to have a transparent budget process are published by the Lebanese Government, with the exception of a citizens' budget. Moreover, the process itself is not participative. However, the Institute of Finance linked to the Ministry of Finance conducted in 2007 and 2008 consultation sessions with Lebanese NGOs to discuss the budgetary process.

Interview with Gaelle Kibranian

Programs Director at the Lebanese Transparency Association and Country Researcher in the 2008 and 2010 Open Budget Index

100: Budget debates are public and records of these proceedings are easily accessible. Authors of individual budget items can easily be identified. Nearly all budget negotiations are conducted in these official proceedings.

75:

50: There is a formal, transparent process for budget debate, but major budget modifications may be negotiated in separate, closed sessions. Some items, such as non-secret defense projects, may be negotiated in closed sessions. Authors of individual line items may be difficult to identify.

25:

0: Budget negotiations are effectively closed to the public. There may be a formal, transparent process, but most real discussion and debate happens in other, closed settings.

YES: A YES score is earned if there are specific formal regulations defining and regulating conflicts of interest between official public duty and private interests for public procurement officials. A YES score is earned if such regulations cover all civil servants, including procurement officials.

NO: A NO score is earned if no such rules exist.

51b. In law, there is mandatory professional training for public procurement officials.

YES NO

Comments:

There is no mandatory training for public procurement officials, however individual initiatives (by national or international agencies) from entities were directed to provide some training to officials.
